Fundamentals of Federal Oil & Gas Leases and How to Keep Them Alive
A Live Streaming Event

September 13, 2018

11:00 - 2:00 AKDT    Noon - 3:00 PDT    1:00 - 4:00 MDT    2:00 - 5:00 CDT    3:00 - 6:00 EDT

This live webinar has been designed for landmen, attorneys, paralegals, government employees, and others who are relatively inexperienced in the legal and land problems involved in federal oil and gas leasing, while more experienced individuals will benefit from a review. This webinar is being offered now, particularly for those new to federal lands work, because our comprehensive Short Course on Federal Oil and Leasing will not be offered again until October 2019.

SPECIAL OFFER!!

Paid registrants of this webinar will be entitled to a credit for the entire registration fee of this webinar against the registration fee for the comprehensive four-day Short Course on Federal Oil and Gas Leasing that will be held October 21 - 24, 2019, in Westminster, Colorado.
This live webinar focuses on the most important aspects of the federal laws and regulations governing federal oil and gas leasing, including the following topics:

- An overview of operating on federal lands
- Public involvement in decision-making
- Obtaining a federal oil and gas lease, including expressions of interest and competitive lease sales and procedures
- When, where, and how rentals are paid, leases in a rental status when held by production, capability of production in paying quantities, and minimum royalty
- Reinstatement of leases
- Suspension of leases, including when and how suspensions are requested, reasons to suspend, tolling of lease terms, and taking a lease out of suspense

Course materials will be provided electronically before the start of the webinar.
3 hours of CLE credit has been applied for in Colorado and Texas.
